Welcome!

Vanessa Hayward, Keeper of the Library

Hello and welcome to Middle Temple Library's first newsletter. We aim to produce it on a quarterly basis and update you on what is happening in your library. We hope you will find it useful and welcome your comments on what you would like to see in future issues, as well as improvements that can be made to the service.

The newsletter will let you know what new books are coming and new IT innovations. This year we have managed to get back some of the titles we had to cancel in 2009 and 2010, including Halsbury's Statutes and The Digest. In addition, we now subscribe to the Lexis UK Cases and Journals database.

In addition we continue to provide access to the following subscription databases:

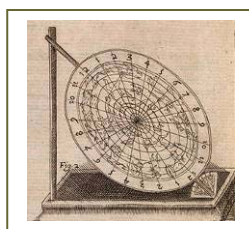

All England Direct - includes All ER reports not available in hard copy

Casetrack - CA cases and transcripts and their special Case Detective service

Hein online - full text US and UK journal articles

Lawtel - cases, articles, practice directions, legislation

Westlaw US - cases and legislation

A 'Sciathericon', a 17th century device for showing time - Ars Magna Lucis et umbrae in decem libros digesta, by Athanasius Kircher (Rome, 1646)

Citation of Law Reports

Bernadette Keeley

TW v A CITY COUNCIL [2011] EWCA Civ 17

On 20/01/11 Sir Nicholas Wall, President of the Family Division, noted that the bundle of authorities only contained one copied from a law report with the remainder copied from the BAILII website. He stated that the profession should be reminded of Practice Direction 52PD.66 – Appeals in Pt 52 Civil Procedure Rules; the relevant authorities need to be copied from the official Law Reports (published by The Incorporated Council of Law Reporting). If one is not available reports from the All England Law Reports or a specialist law report may be included. The use of BAILII reports is only permitted if the case requires citation and no other recognised reports are available.

Updates from the Rare Books Collection

Renae Satterley

Since 2009 the Library has been having images from the Rare Books Collection photographed and made available to purchase via the Science Photo Library website (www.sciencephoto.com).

So far 599 images have been photographed, 442 of which are available on the website. The rest will follow in the coming months. All of the images in the Newsletter are from this project, and all proceeds go towards purchasing new law books and resources for the Library.

Over 400 images from the Rare Books Collection are now available to view and purchase from the Science Photo Library website

The Book Sponsorship Programme is going well, and since 2007 we have raised over £20,000, and saved 88 books. There is still much conservation required however, so donations to the sponsorship programme are always welcome. Even some of the books used in the Science Photo project can be sponsored.

For more information, or to download a sponsorship form, see our website at: <http://www.middletemple.org.uk/library/book-sponsorship.html>

Coffee Anyone?

Renae Satterley

In April 2011 the Library installed a coffee machine which dispenses various coffees, teas, and hot chocolate for those using the Library. The cost is 80p a cup. We welcome feedback on the machine, and the quality of the drinks on offer. The Library also sells bottled water for 80p a bottle, which can be purchased at the Enquiry Desk. Both the hot and cold drinks on offer may be consumed in the Library.

Coffee was introduced in England by the East India Company and the Dutch East India Coffee. The first coffeehouse in London was opened in 1652; the first in England was in Oxford in 1650. The East India Company is also responsible for introducing tea to England in 1664, to satisfy Catherine of Braganza's love for the drink. Drinking chocolate was first introduced in 1657 was first served at 'The Coffee Mill and Tobacco Roll', situated in Bishopgate St.

The earliest statute to mention coffee is from 1660 – 12 Car II Cap. 24, and regards the amount of excise to be paid (4 pence per gallon sold).

WiFi Extended

Julian Reckert

The Library has offered free WiFi access for the last two years. The system has until now had limited coverage and could only be used at the far end of the Library; however, we have installed a new system, with a greater range and a more reliable connection. This means that you can access the Internet free, from your own computer, from anywhere in the Library, and even – this should please the sun-chasers – while lounging on the benches or the lawn of Middle Temple garden. (Or – for the true workaholics – while enjoying a Middle Temple lunch in the Garden.)

If you access the Internet via our WiFi connection, you will only be able to use paid subscription sources if you subscribe to them yourself; otherwise, if you want to use our paid-subscription sites* without charge, you will need to use one of the workstations in the Library.
